Weaving A Web of Peace - Calm Environment

This new section shows you how to use various approaches to cleanse your mind, body, and homes to create a calming and peaceful state of mind and environment.

Having a calm environment is key when seeking a sense of peace. It is difficult to relax in a place filled with chaos, clutter, and negative emotions. To achieve a soothing place to live and/or work, try the following:

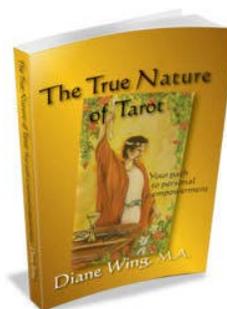

* Piles of papers, clothing, toys, and boxes tend to create stuck energy and a sense of confusion. Clear the clutter, get rid of the piles of papers and junk - even in the out-of-the-way places like the closets and basement.

* Arguments, depression, anxiety, loud music/noise, and violent TV programs promote a sense of Arachne's Alchemy: This section of the newsletter is dedicated to transformation. Your questions are always welcome and can be emailed to me at arachne@forestwitch.com to get a direct reply.

Planetary energies are transformative. This is a 10-part series regarding the transformative nature of the planetary energies held within the natal (birth) chart. Each planet and where it sits in the sign and house on the chart gives guidance as to the strengths and challenges you face in this lifetime. There are many ways to interpret these energies, and this section will focus on the way in which these planets promote mental, emotional, spiritual, and behavioral transformations.

The energies of Jupiter are calling me this month. According to Astrology, Karma & Transformation by Stephen Arroyo, Jupiter promotes transformation of one's beliefs, aspirations, and long-term plans for the future – all of which promise some kind of improvement.

Take stock of what you currently believe to be true about the world, your relationships, your life philosophy, and yourself. How long have you held these beliefs? Where did they originate? Do these beliefs still resonate for you at this point in your life?

What you believe has everything to do with what you aspire to become and what your future looks like. If you believe that nothing you do is worthwhile or that you can't do anything right, then it will be extremely difficult to accomplish your goals. You may not even be able to set goals if you believe that it won't do any good. Jupiter's energy is expansive; use it to open yourself to new ways of seeing and thinking about yourself and what is possible.

A good way to shift out of your current belief system is to choose a topic that interests you, and then expose yourself to every perspective on that topic, whether or not the viewpoint agrees with what you initially believe. Read and watch those who have been studying or experiencing the topic and look for the value in their opinions, even if it doesn't match-up with your thoughts. Seek out information that expands the way you look at the topic to increase your understanding. Each time you learn something new, your mind creates new neural networks that allow you to see things differently.

As you mature you gain experience and knowledge; it seems like a given to be able to use new experiences to elevate your vibrational pattern. When you can grasp the new lesson inherent in that experience, it illuminates the way you understand your life. Sadly, there are many who have new experiences, yet put them into the old belief system and never derive the benefit.

Once you are open to seeing the potential in yourself and in your circumstances, you'll be able to aspire to the things you have only been able to dream about. What would you want your life to look like if you had no obstacles? If you have been holding yourself back and are unsure of what your ultimate goal would be, consider what comes easily to you, think about the kind of life that would make you feel glad to wake up in the morning and start your day. Avoid the mundane - such as, "I want to win the lottery" - rather think about living in your ideal environment (city, suburbs, urban area), what it would feel like (peaceful, exhilarating), and the way you'd most like to spend your time.

Jupiter brings boundless enthusiasm and great opportunity to be in high service to others. Seek to expand your views until you reach the point where you can see the possibilities in a way that excites you and raises your energy. Use these energies to make your life amazing.

agitation in the space. Encourage calm discussion instead of fighting, seek help for depression and anxiety (preferably in a non-medicated way, unless it's medically necessary), play peaceful music, and watch uplifting programming on TV.

* Focusing on sad or traumatic memories hold dense and difficult energy in the space. Let go of all items that you associate with negative times in your life, including clothing, memorabilia, and art objects and feel the heaviness in the atmosphere dissipate.

* Items purchased at a second hand store can have unwanted energies attached to them. Cleanse any such items with sage, white light, or sunlight to clear these energies.

Forest Witch Commentary: Stuck?

Are you stuck? Do you tell others that you do not like the way your life is, yet do not have a vision of what you want or a plan to make the necessary changes to create something different? Have you become comfortable in your discomfort?

Here are some indicators that you are stuck:

1. You've been complaining about the same issues for at least a year, probably longer.
2. When seeking advice, your response to the helper tends to be "Yeah, but..." followed by all the reasons why the suggestion won't work.
3. Your favorite phrase is "I'll try" or "I'm trying," yet this is passive and not moving you along the path. In the words of Yoda, "Try not. Do or do not. There is no try."
4. If you frequently feel angry at your inability to change your life, your fear of change and your reluctance to modify how you're perceiving the issue are making you feel powerless.
5. When those around you tire of hearing the same problems over and over and suggest you do something to change it, your response is "I don't know how" or "I can't." Once again, this perspective denies the power you have within you.

The bottom line is that you create your life – for better or worse – and everything that is in your life right now is a result of your power to build it any way you want. You ask why you would want to create such situations that make you miserable. Good question. It doesn't have to be this way. You build your life with every negative thought and fear, which produces the stuckness and the misery. Take this ability and construct something that you really want. It's a matter of shifting your perspective.

Here are some strategies to help you:

1. Each time a negative thought comes across your mind, counter it with a positive one. For example, "I'll never find another job" versus "The right opportunity is waiting for me."
2. Change the way you think of yourself. "No one wants me" versus "I have the power to attract the right relationship into my life."
3. Shift from thinking that you'll do it "one day" to "I intend to start my journey toward X today."
4. Put a rubber band around your wrist, and every time you have a negative thought, catch yourself and snap the rubber band before the thoughts take you down a dark road.
5. When something undesirable occurs, ask "what is the lesson in this?" Seek to understand why the situation presented itself and what opportunity there is for growth.
6. Ask yourself what is holding you back; what are you really afraid of, and what's the worst thing that could happen if you break free of the constraints you've placed upon yourself?
7. Know that sometimes a delay proves beneficial, so don't confuse a well-timed delay with being stuck.
8. Take responsibility for where you are right now. It's not your parents' fault or anyone else's.
9. Take action. Those from whom you seek guidance cannot do it for you or offer a magick bullet to change your life. It is up to you to take charge of your life.

There are many ways to overcome stuckness. Awareness that you are stuck is a good first step to moving forward, and then you can begin the real work of breaking down the obstacles that hold you back. Remember, the only thing stopping you is yourself. It's time to get out of your own way. Make the decision to have the life you really want. It is never too late to make changes and to take control of your life. You have gifts to give to the world, and it is time to find out what those are so that you can release your Inner Magick.
