While the deep blue color is most recognizable, it comes in a variety of colors. For the purposes of this article, we will focus on the meaning of the blue Sapphire. It was a favorite of high priests and kings as a symbol of wisdom and purity. It is also considered a protection stone. It is associated with the Third Eye (6th) and Throat (5th) chakras and is a stone of awareness, mental discipline, and focus. Begin associated with two chakras, it fosters inner vision and the ability to communicate one's thoughts. It's astrological correspondence is to Saturn, bringing it the properties of structure, discipline, limitation, and order. Sapphire assists the wearer to organize

In this 30-minute class, you'll learn ways to uncover your purpose, and how the divine expression of your purpose in high service to others	Forest Witch Commentary: The Retreat Experience This past weekend I had the privilege of participating in the Retreat at Ramblewood, a 200-acre property, complete with pond, hiking trails, and a labyrinth. We were blessed with beautiful weather to enjoy the outdoor activities, as well as the events occurring under the pavilion. The attendees came to learn about themselves, their path, and the ways they can express their unique gifts. They ranged from new seekers to experienced practitioners. Some came for the day, others spent the weekend. I was honored to be among the teachers there and to have the opportunity to meet so many dedicated seekers. The connections I made with a gifted Shaman called Leotha and a lovely teacher/practitioner named Maggie will produce wonderful new courses on Wing Academy of Unfoldment. Participants enjoyed yoga taught by the event's organizer, Patti Hawse, healings, fire dancing, meditation, classes on intuitive development, feng shui, soul's mission, journeying, and power reclaiming. As attendees shared their journeys with the group, it was apparent that some experienced profound visions that were life changing, while others had a mild experience that left them puzzled. As with all experiences on the spiritual path, results vary depending on individual variables such as mood, openness, and energy level, the techniques/methods utilized, the energy of the group, and the energy of the facilitator. No two experiences are alike, however, with each one the seeker adds to his or her knowledge of the self, which techniques are most effective for them, and how to interpret the images and sensations that come through. All in all, retreats allow the seeker to be lifted from the stresses of daily life and put themselves into an environment that is there to support their explorations of the self. Retreats provide the added benefit of having multiple teachers so that participants can experience different perspectives and be exposed to new learning opportunities. For some, the natural environment of Ramblewood was healing in and of itself, while for others, the teachings and spiritual journey served to open them to new paths of awareness, sending them home rejuvenated with a renewed commitment to self-care and understanding. The next opportunity to experience a retreat is coming October 1st at Circle of Trees. If you're feeling like it's time for a fresh perspective and a change of pace, consider joining us in Milford, PA

Intuitive Tarot Reading Workshop

October 1-3, 2010 Circle of Trees Retreat Milford, PA

Are you looking for a way to develop your intuitive abilities but don't know where to start? This 2-hour course will teach you to use tarot cards to tap into your natural intuitive abilities.

In the first hour, you'll learn the basic structure of tarot, color meanings, the suits, the court cards, and card layouts. The interactive portion of the workshop comes in the second hour, when students will pair up to practice seeing messages in the cards, feeling their energy, and making connections between them. Bring your favorite tarot deck and notebook to class with you! No prior experience necessary.

You'll also have the opportunity to purchase a signed copy of Diane's new book The True Nature of Tarot: Your path to personal empowerment

For reservations please contact Marjorie Forbes Spadoni 484-347-7489 or marjoriespadoni@circleoftreesretreat.com

Arachne's Alchemy: This section of the newsletter is dedicated to transformation. Your questions are always welcome and can be emailed to me at DianeWing@forestwitch.com to get a direct reply. Making small changes is transformative. Change can be stressful, especially big changes. When you feel like it's time to really start getting on track and making changes in your life, it can feel daunting. Questions arise from your deepest fears. Will things feel too different? Am I doing the right thing? Do I have the strength and the ability to move forward with the necessary changes? Cut yourself a break and realize that sweeping changes are not necessary in order to have a transformational experience. Even a minor change can create beneficial shifts that lead to even more positive results. For example, every time you catch yourself complaining about something, know that you are lowering your vibration and inhibiting your potential. Replace the complaints with a resolution that addresses the problem. In this way, you will solve or eliminate the issue and your vibrational level will increase along with your self-confidence. You have control over the decisions you make, and making the decision to focus on the positive aspects of your life and adopting an attitude of gratitude will change your experience both internally and externally. The world looks much different when approached with optimism and positivity. Choose one small thing that you want to change each month. As you succeed at each change, future changes will be easier to make. The size of the changes may increase and you will be on the path to creating your destiny rather than being a victim.
